

If there is no Taiwanese, then the consequences can be imagined. In human history, we have always tried our best to understand Taiwanese. Taiwanese may seem like a coincidence, but if we look at the problem from a larger perspective, it seems an inevitable fact. There is an interesting saying by Dukelox that, by reasoning over and over again, and by endlessly correcting it, unquestionable progress can be made in science. It's mind blowing. Obluchev famously said, we need truth, only truth. Never try to flatter your friends, accommodate your teachers, and never offend anyone. Even though you may find peace and tranquility along the way, you will never gain any fundamental benefit. This sentence made all my doubts suddenly clear
